

SAINT BERNADETTE SCHOOL

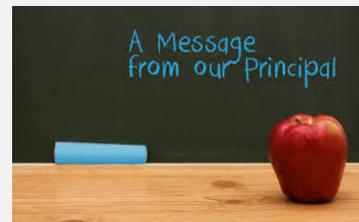

Small school. Big heart.

Dear Parents and Guardians,

Pictured above Carly, Hannah and Sierra wear their "brains" during a session of the Biomedical Club. This is one of three after school clubs that Mr. Brunner is hosting, two of which explore science/math topics. Some schools would tout something like this as STEM education (Science, Technology, Engineering, Math) and it is...but it's bigger than that. When there is a lot of creativity encouraged, it changes that word to STEAM. (Add Arts to the list). But, at St. Bernadette, where we learn all we can through the lens of Catholic teaching and Christian love, the acronym is STREAM (add Religion to the list). So the next time a friend asks you if St. Bernadette offers STEM coursework the answer is "Yes, but, we prefer to call it STREAM!" because in truth, the materials and plans we use in our classrooms absolutely employ all those elements at some point in a given project.

For more pictures about the clubs' activities, check our Facebook page. Mr. Brunner has posted a number of "moments" you'll enjoy. If you look at much earlier posts, you'll see everything from leprechaun traps (Engineering Design) to game development happening in classrooms thanks to our creative teachers. Activities like these keep curriculum fresh and help our students apply critical thinking skills.

Remember to register for the Halloween dance/party/trunk-or-treat event!
Envelopes for sending in money went home today to help you with that.

Enjoy your evening,
Lizanne G. Ingram

Mrs. Mattei and Mrs. Duffey tour the Ashland Chemical Company as part of a two-day conference for teachers. Known as TIE (Teachers, Industry, and Environment), the conference is "hands on" training for science teachers. We sent Mr. Brunner, too!

Mr. Brunner shows a plate of tinted (food coloring) shaving cream. Dropping water on the tinted substance turns it white, demonstrating that shaving cream has both hydrophobic and hydrophilic properties.
